You walked out, you made that choice. Now all you're doing is looking like a bigger horses ass. Proving that you will forever stay childish and immature never growing up, ever. You have worn me out with this stupid childish crap and I've outgrown it. Too bad you choose not to be a grown up. You had s chance to talk in person but you walked out again. Every hateful email you send me pushes me further away. I long to be with someone who isn't a damn man child. I'm actually starting to want to be with someone else.. I need a reliable stable non childish partner and you've proven, by walking out, that you're not my person. You cheated on me with some cheap bimbo, of course you're not my person.
