It hurts that you attacked me last night and especially this morning. I don't know how to help you. You seem to not care or want help and just push everyone away. I hope you can find peace with whatever your going through. I realize after last nights messages to me, that there's more stuff you did behind my back. And I'm sad about it, but you've obviously already done it and can't take it back. I hope the best for you in whatever you go on to do. Sincerely.
